second star to the right
and straight on til morning . . .
. . . to rude awakenings with eyes sleepy. trying hard to remember last night's dream . . .
you tighten your eyes to make it go longer.

It never does.
a black winter sky
turns slowly grey
as you swallow mother's oats and wonder what day it is.

alone in your indefinite thoughts
you shiver silently as you board the yellow bus of screaming kids allover and someone stealing your cookies.

stare out at the moving still things . . .
blankly . . . until the foggy silhouettes
come into focus at one last STOP.
And KHS becomes your day (slips in silently)

slow bodies under fat books
stuff the hallways
small bodies and large ones
with round heads and skinny eyes and some heads even smile at you and if you've noticed you smile back and
suddenly the sun is shining.
paces pick up.
Your head begins thinking and the purpose of You is a little clearer.

class is slow. class is fast.
class is him and class is you an exchange . . . straight feeding or you on your own molding you and voicing you. class is voices.
class is ears, eyes, and minds and learning is contact made.

class is escape . . . a runaway to head expanding discoveries . . . to identifications with the real and the pretends. to a flashback of the past and a dream of what might be.
to a world you imagined, expressed
and were able to interpret.

All the faces you saw yesterday
are here today.
Some of the thoughts which lie
behind the faces you know something about some of those thoughts attracts you and those faces are your friends.

friends in school are the ones who say dumb things
and complain about the things you complain about . . .
feed you at lunch time
and . . . sometimes . . . make ya
laugh out loud over nothing at all.
friendly teachers come down to you. You like them. even when they grab you and say,
"STOP! your world has got to pace down a little."

lunch . . . the second time
you looked out the window
today . . . raisin-sprinkled meals and pocahontas parsley
potatoes . . . you talk,
you listen.
You daydream . . . sigh.
you try to imagine
what life would be like if your term paper was typed and move,
baffled, to class.

there.

looking at things through your plastic protections brings slight distortions . . .
myopic views;
blindness to things you should be fully aware of . . .

or you can climb up
high . . . away . . . by yourself.
and take a general look at things, all at once
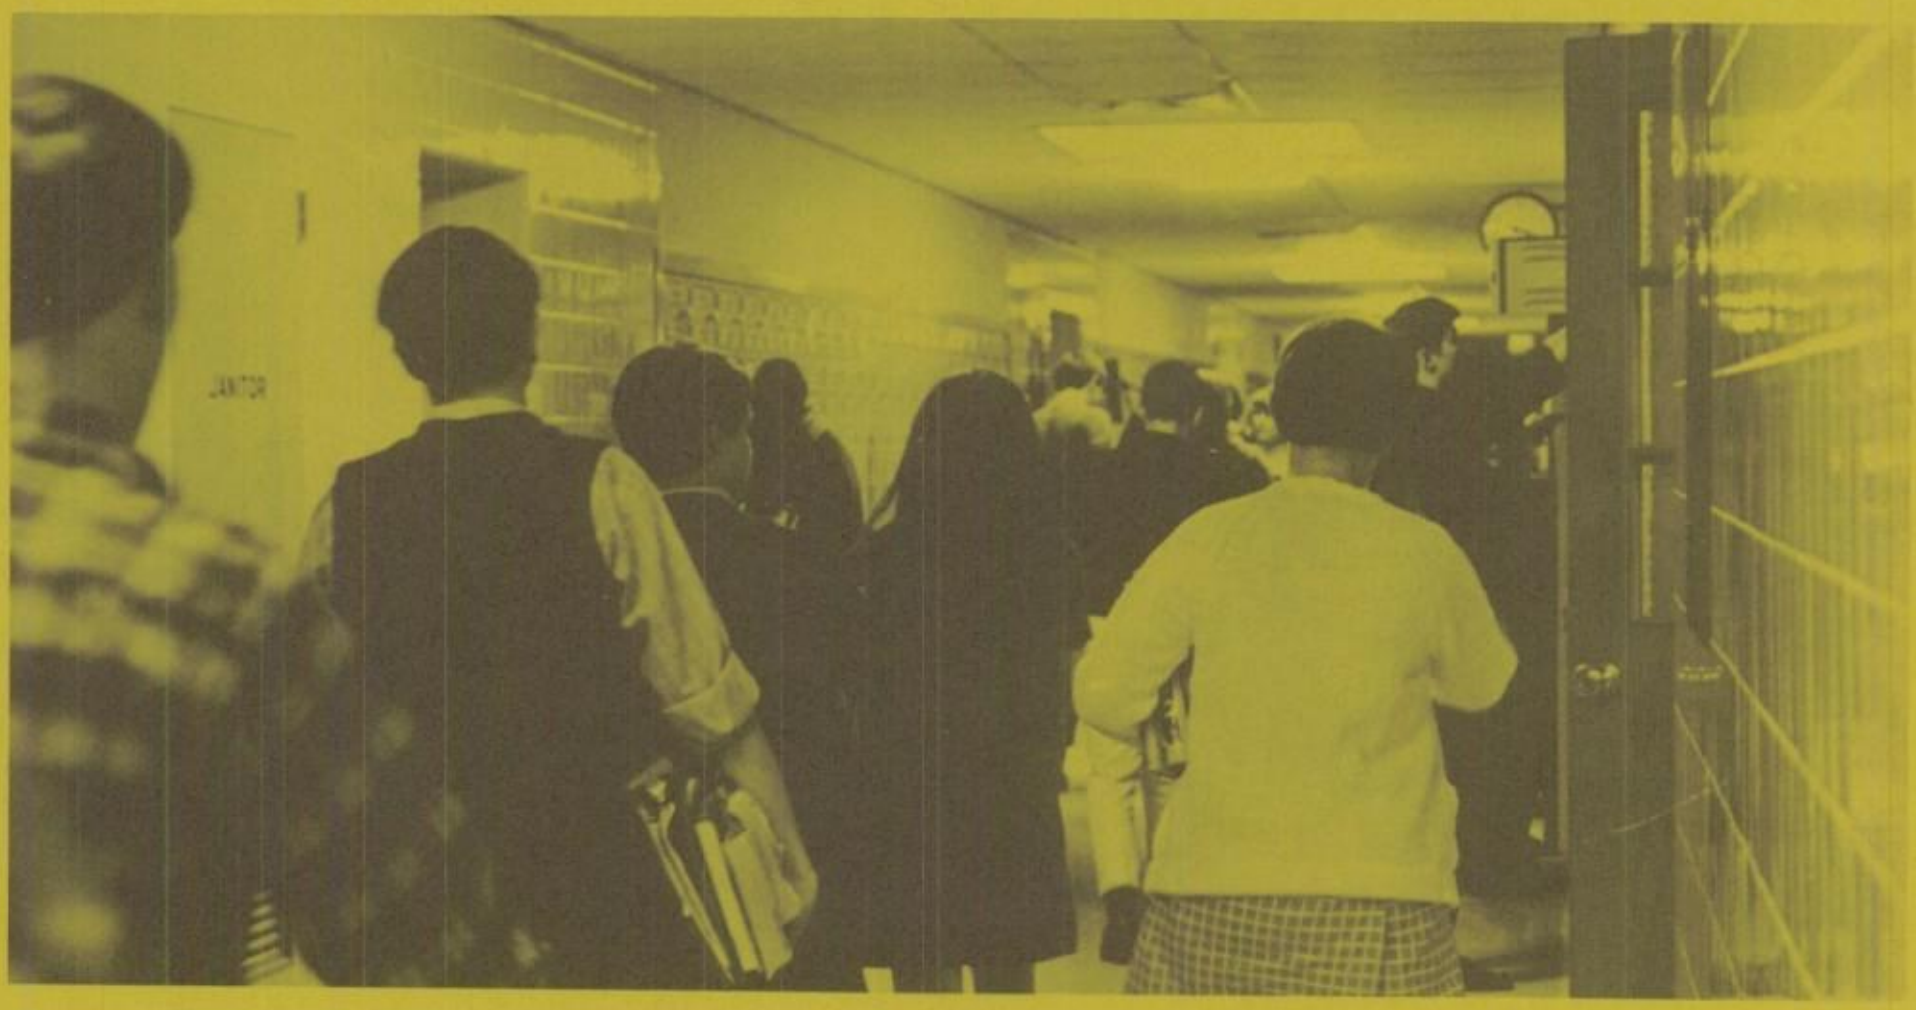
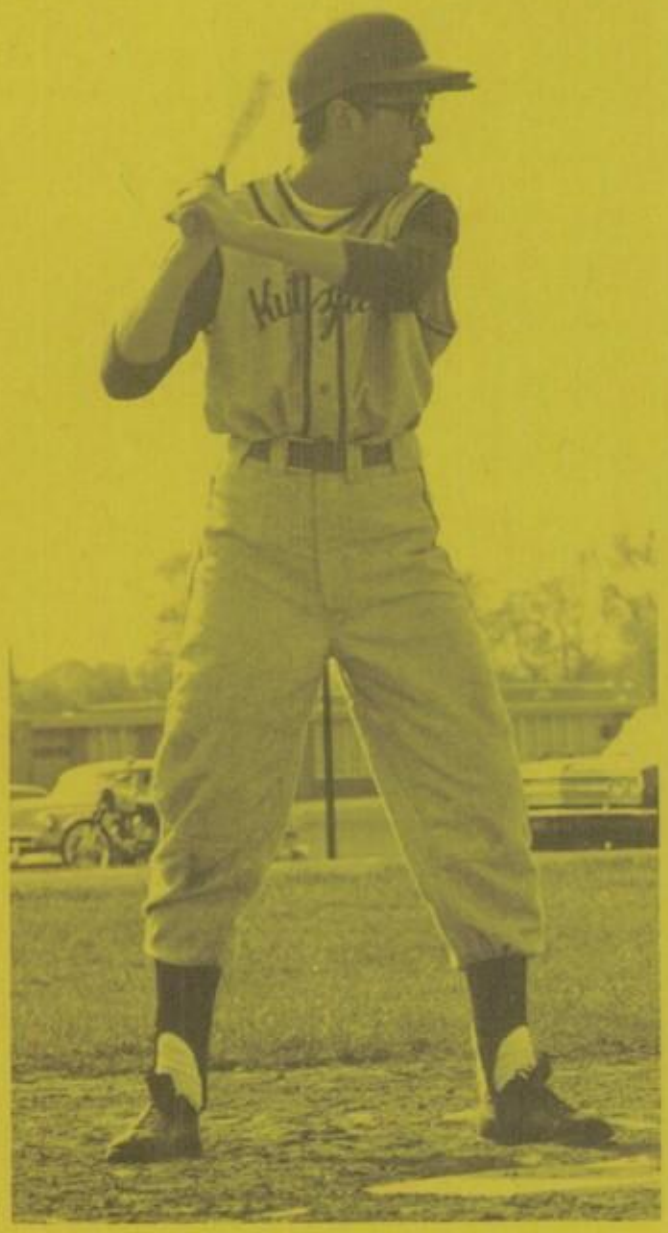
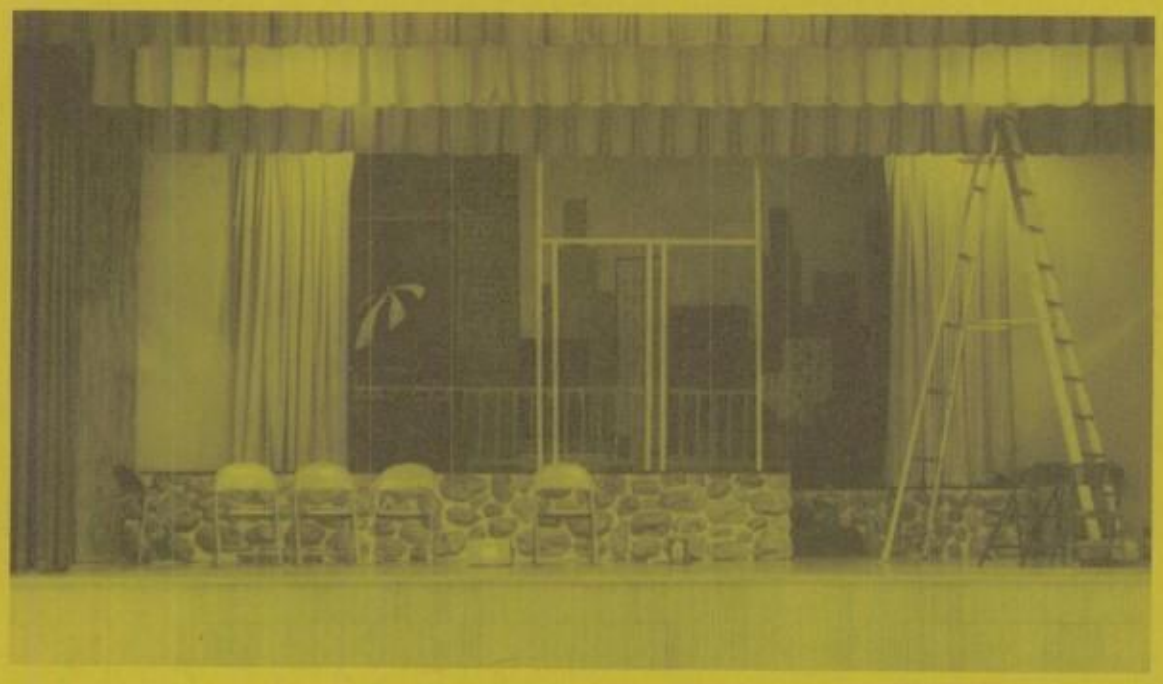
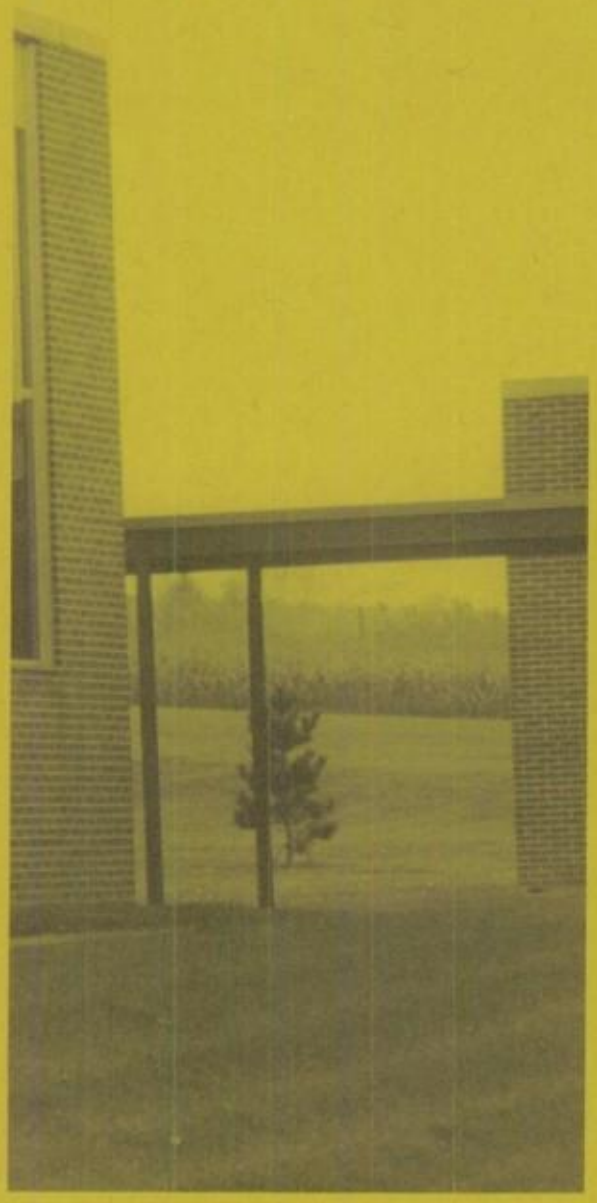
from a different point of view.









you can hide behind

dedication in memoriam

Could I but choose —
I wonder would it be
when quick heart-beats are all me.
Youth reaching out through eyes and lips;
Ambition-tingled finger tips;
Would it be then — that I
would choose to die?
Could I but choose —
In manhood strength made bold,
with all my world to plan and mold;
All joy and love and zest of life,
with cool of calm and hear of strife
Would it be then — that I
would choose to die?
Could I but choose —
Old age and brimming cup
the numbered years
Strength failing into weakness now;
eyes dimmed to light and ruffled brow.
Would it be then — that I
would choose to die?
If I could choose I think that I would leave to God my time to die.

ADMINISTRATION

MESSAGE TO THE CLASS OF 1969

Congratulations to every member of the Class of 1969! You have now successfully completed your public education in the Kutztown Area School District.

Your contribution to society will depend on the goals that you have established for your life and the manner in which you pursue those goals. If the American way of life is to continue to be a model for the nations of the world, you must dedicate yourself to a life of service and active citizenship in your community and state.

Greed and laziness, which appear to be prevalent in our current society, are no more appropriate in twentieth century America than they were in eighteenth century America. It is your responsibility as a mature American citizen to help insure that these vices do not undermine the very foundations of our democracy.

In your own personal and family life, do your best to apply the Golden Rule as a daily practice. If you do, both you and your associates will enjoy richer and more rewarding lives.

May God richly bless each of you as you take your place in the main stream of American life!

Dr. Charles F. Wilson

Charles F. Wilson

Supervising Principal,
B.A., M.Ed., Pennsylvania State University, Ed.D., Columbia University.

dr. charles f. wilson

You are arriving at that time of the year when thousands of young men and young women will leave high schools to begin life in the practical world.

The formal education you received should have provided you with the necessary preparation to assist you in making your way through life.

From time immemorial stars have been a guide to men on deserts and on ships at sea. Ideals and stars are alike in that they are difficult to reach. You have been told many times that anything you desire you can get if you want it badly enough. Nothing is beyond the mental or physical limitations of the individual who has set his mind and heart upon the attainment of a goal.

One should consider not only the attainment of the goal as the chief end but also the method or means of attainment. If the goal must be attained by dishonest, selfish or thoughtless means which will hurt others and bring unhappiness to many — it is not worth achieving.

You are living in a time of challenge and opportunity; also, an era in which personal growth has real purpose and urgency. Today one must meet the minimum educational requirements of tomorrow's world. One must constantly take a careful look at himself to determine if he is growing as rapidly as the society in which he lives. The future years will be one of such rapid change that his schooling of yesterday will rapidly become obsolete. Continuing your education — it is a never ending process — and lifelong study is most important if you desire to find your rightful place in life and be happy in it.

The purpose of your education and training at your high school was to help make you better citizens, and better and more useful members of society. You have been given knowledge but knowledge in itself is not enough. I hope all of you, the Class of 1969, will find the proper way to do this, then all of you may consider your lives successful.

Each school day . . .
From the time school begins,
Until the last book is closed in June
Each student meets different teachers
Each a master in his own field.
Whether it be teaching someone to . . .
Drive a car, interpret Shakespeare,
Make a dress, or do impossible equations,
They are capable of instructing us
With proficiency.
At KAHS our teachers can be found
In various shapes and sizes . . .
Each with his unique appeal!
Yes, we, the class of '69
Are very proud of our teachers . . .
Where else can be found
A more dedicated faculty
Concerned for our future
Than here at Kutztown Area High School?

WRESTLING

Here are the Kutztown wrestlers . . .

Ready for the fight,

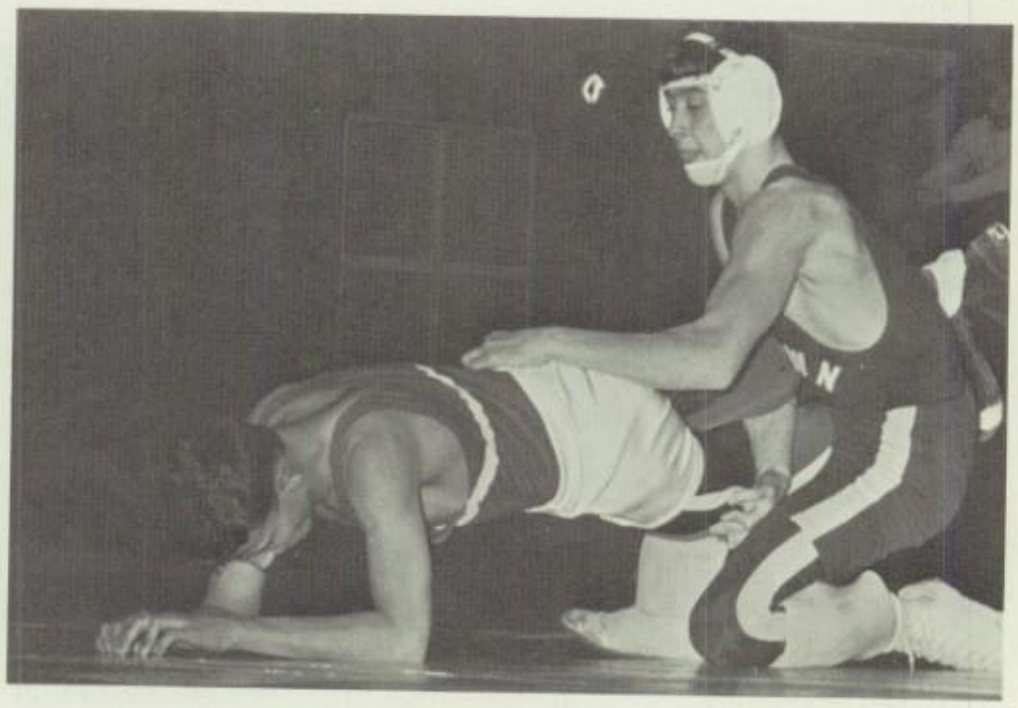
Upon the mat they grapple

To bring our school new honor

Coached by Mr. Walker

And led by seniors

Bruce Follweiler and David Lahr.



The '68–'69 Cougars . . .

A show of real determination

The kind needed to improve and excel.

The team moved under Coach DeTurk

And scored, led by Tom Druckenmiller

And teammates Ken Smith and Barry Greenawalt.

CURS-
CLOUD

No school is complete without

Its clubs . . .

They encompass a wide range

Of interests from chess and art

To gym and service.

To each they're something different

Maybe a dance, an assembly, or a dinner.

And there's something for everyone

Whether it be science, books, or fish . . .

Take your choice

And expand your interests.

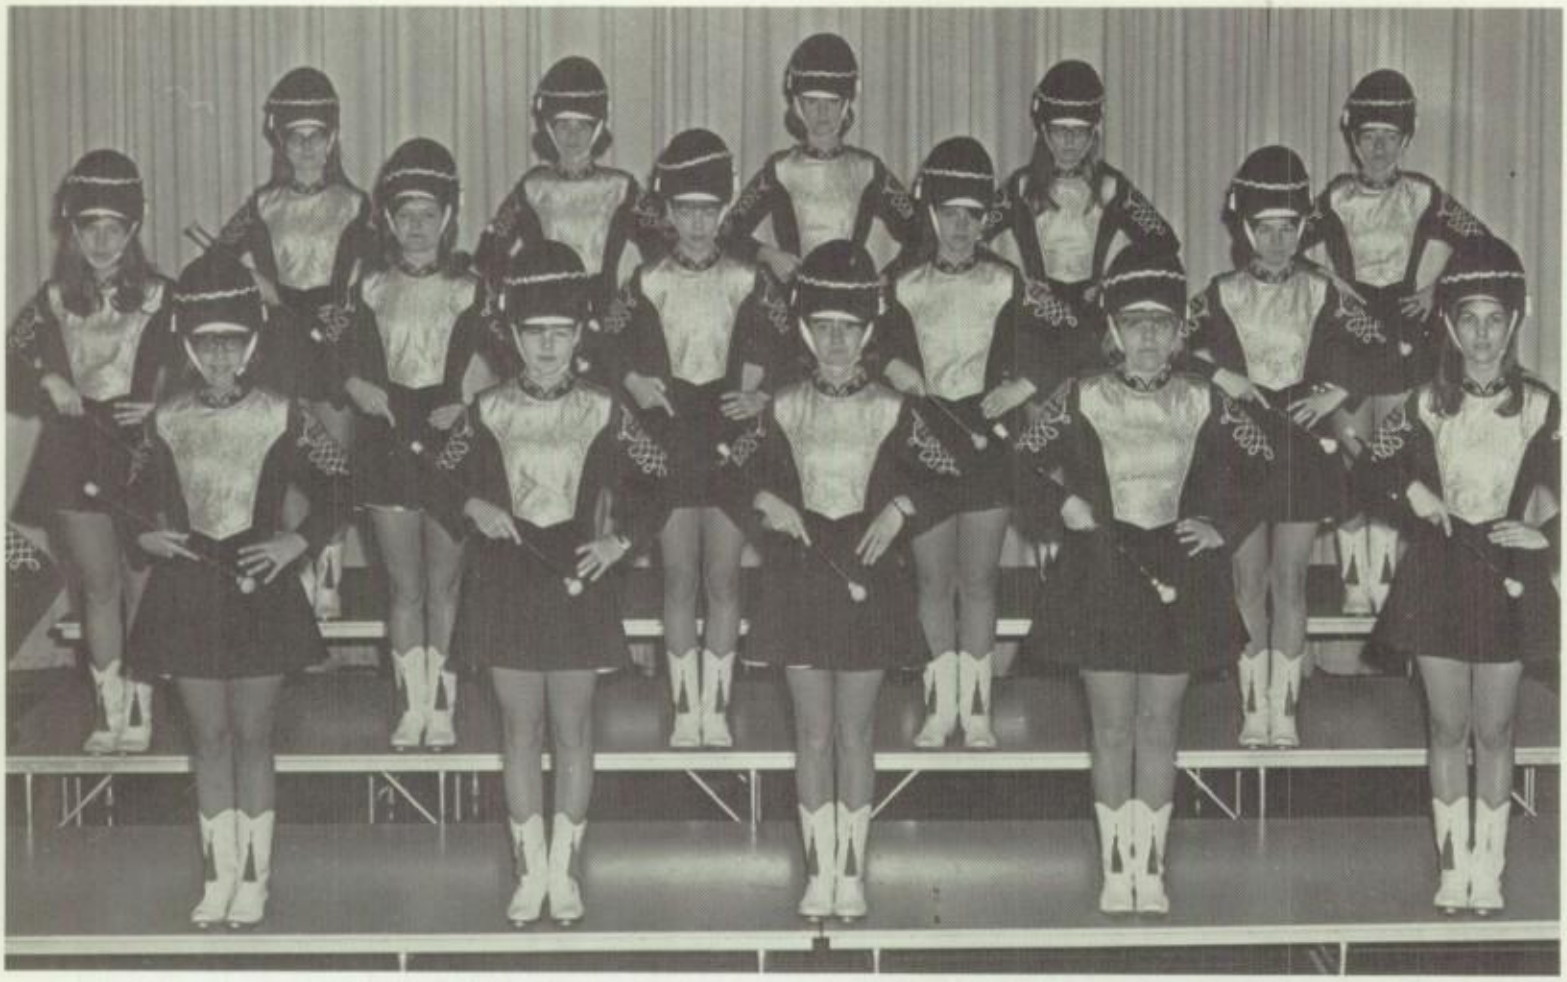
MAJOR-ETTES



COLOR GUARD

Slippery cleats
on tasseled boots,
Numb fingers trying to twirl,
Stiff arms trying to hold
the flags erect.
These are some of the trials of Being a colorguard or majorette
Adding snap
to the band on parade,
It looks easy . . .
Until you try it.

A summer of practicing and perfecting
But once at the tryouts
The practicing didn't seem to help
Then the good news — we're in.
District and County Band and County Orchestra.
A lot of fun, but just as Much work.

The Stage, Sound, and Projector Crew . . .
A little recognized, but very important group.
Movies, filmstrips, stage lights, microphones.
Someone is needed who knows
How to run them.
Under Mr. Keim's generalship
The boys become experts.
Lights out! That unseen hand
Flicks a switch and the movie is rolling.

KNOWLEDGE BOWL

For forty-five minutes
We wrack our brains
Trying to remember . . .
Where did Wellington defeat Napoleon?
Who won the Pulitzer Prize for Our Town?
What are the components of A peanut butter and jelly sandwich?
All to what purpose?
It's fun!

STUDENT COUNCIL

Student Council . . . for a long Time a silent part of the student Government.
Now, under the supervision of Mr. Adams, the Student Store
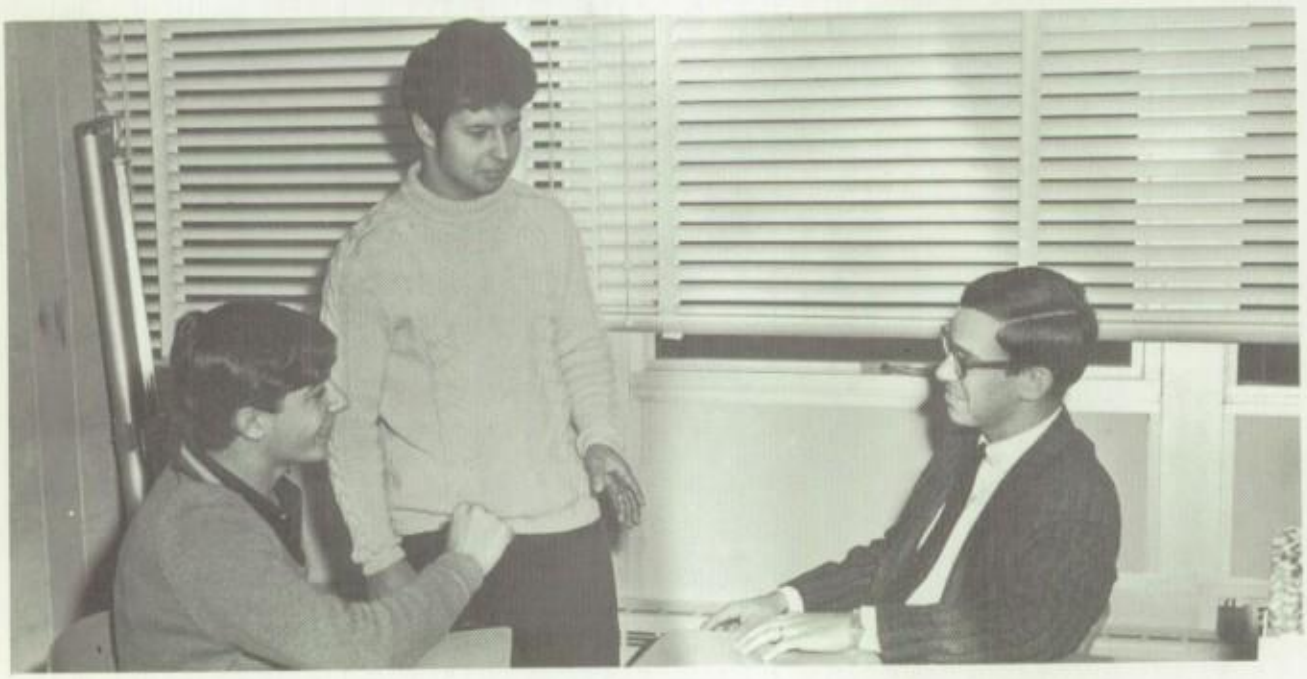
Has opened, activities are planned.
Sweatshirts anyone?
Friday night dances . . .
All projects of the Student Council.

BELOW: ROW 1: Victor Berger, Carl Rabenold, Sandra Henninger, June Schwoyer, Dolores Kerchner, Darlene Henninger, Olive Kistler, Mary Turn, Weatherly Leibensperger. ROW 2: Mr. Barry Adams, advisor; Blair Boyer, Timothy Trout, Rebecca Evans, Diane Scheiwe, Rosemary Wagaman, Martha Francis, Virginia Grim, Sharon Sexton. ROW 3: Gary Bond, Kenneth Smith, Rita Adam, Donald Knittle, David Keim, David Lahr. ROW 4: Dennis Heffner, David Seaman, Robert Dietrich, Randall Eshbach, Alan Haas, Peter Gottlund. ROW 5: James Wetzel, Andrew Bieber, Jeffrey Unger, Kenneth Hamm.



TOP: Socializing, a bit of charm; Fred and Nestor meet the town and learn about Pennsylvania Dutch hospitality. CENTER: Making acquaintance and saying "hi" from Chile and Argentina to Kutztown. BELOW: "Caramba! I give up!" Freddy seems to say. Another debate between our Latin Amigos and Mr. Viglione.

Chile, Argentina . . .

Strangers, now friends

Each one adding something

To our lives.

Smiling, saucy,

Sharing cultures

Luck to our friendly Latins.

Character and leadership
Scholarship and service.
These are the four distinguishing qualities found in members of the National Honor Society.
The faculty decisions are unknown until the very end.
Up to that time there is one question uppermost in many minds.
Am I to be one of them?

SENIOR CLASS PLAY

MAY I COME IN?

ABOVE: LEAD CHARACTERS: Barry Greenawalt, Paula Herring, Laura Wessner, Jerry Heydt.

A millionaire's daughter on her own for the first time . . . the plot
of our senior class play.
The show business crowd has its ups and downs —
money ran out!
Irving Hoffman rescued
the play . . . and was taken for $25,000.
Angie's apartment became
the rehearsal hall.
Poor Van — he never did get a girl
only a dunking backstage!
Mike and Cindy, Leon and Kathy — love certainly can be funny!
Show business rifts threatened
the twosome of Lola and Rip.
Lola's charm rang through
as she sang
"Whatever Lola Wants, Lola Gets"
to a love-struck Strangler.
Saturday evening had an unexpected touch —
the song ended with a kiss!
Furious parents, a police detective, and a crazy landlord all add up to trouble!

Rip and Angie finally found each other —
or did they?

In eleventh grade graduation seems far distant. For the college bound May arrives
and with it College Boards.
Attempts at cramming prove impossible. A morning of sitting . . . then utter exhaustion. A complete lapse of memory until scores arrive. Your world becomes a maze of surprise or disappointment. Summer comes . . . suddenly it's Fair Week.
September and time grows short.
Decisions, decisions.
Education or liberal arts?
Confusion reigns. Slowly
the pieces fall into some semblance of order . . . as your interests are concentrated in one area. Applications arrive. Questions to answer. Forms to be filled out.
Finally everything's in the mail and all you can do is wait.

While some of us await the fateful letters from colleges . . . the rest of us have our job interviews. It's a frightening thought — planning the future. We all try to look . . . and act our best. Again you have the forms and the questions . . . they seem to be never ending. The time goes slowly . . . finally it's all over. We believe we made good impressions. Now we can only wait to see if someone is willing to give our future a start.

Jobs and colleges — an important part of our senior year. But before these can be seriously considered, a diploma must be earned.
As seniors we have extras like a class trip, a class play, senior portraits, and the fitting of caps and gowns. But we still have one year of clubs, lunch, sports, activities, and most important or least important as the case may be, classes to attend.

A sleepless night and now butterflies — the feeling before a test. Rushing into class you discover the exam already on your desk. The know-it-alls attack the test with fervor. You sit there trying to look intelligent — while inside panic! First question . . . on to the next. Second . . . that draws a blank, too. You studied all the wrong things . . . disaster! A lucky guess here — a suddenly remembered answer there. The period goes quickly and the papers are collected. You leave the room not knowing what tomorrow's class will bring. Tests are important — and often the best cramming is done during lunch.

12:16 — there goes the buzzer.
Everyone goes racing down the hall to lunch —
except those who are detained to act like gentlemen!
Lunch is eaten in five minutes flat . . .
the rest of the time must be spent doing last minute homework. Discussions are lively as the latest bit of gossip is related.
12:48 — Mr. Adams nods and it's back to class.

Of all the days to have our senior portraits taken . . . we chose a sweltering Saturday. The heat did absolutely nothing for a girl's hair, and the poor guys with their jackets . . .
Girls panicked when they realized they only had a clothespin to close their drapes — the boys fumbled with their hooks and eyes!
Too bad that all the time spent on hair was wasted. Bangs on boys had to go under the mortarboards — much to their disgust.
The tassels dangled in our faces as we naturally assumed a false smile.
Five minutes and everything was over . . . one more thing to look back on.

Tuesdays, Thursday, Fridays . . .
homework was forgotten
and the scripts were brought out.
Blinding lights, a creative mind . . .
May I Come In? was a great success.
It was hard work, but also
fun. The time passed slowly, then suddenly everything became one.
Lines had been learned . . .
costumes were decided upon.
November 1 came swiftly
and everyone had last minute jitters . . .
but the play went on without a mistake!

Before we know it the end of our high school education is upon us. It brings a little bit of happiness
and a little bit of sadness
to us all.
We're kept busy . . .
not only with work but
with fun: class trip, prom, awards assembly, and finally baccalaureate and commencement.
A small sheet of paper
makes everything worthwhile.
